A colourful, not always politically correct, pictorial map of the United States produced by the Greyhound Bus Lines Corporation. It was aimed at travelers during the heyday of bus travel in the United States. The Greyhound bus routes are shown in black, with interconnecting routes in dotted lines. The map itself is packed with humorous cartoons, depicting the various attractions along the routes. On the back of the map there are ideas of great landmark, plus an advert to 'Swing around America This Summer by Greyhound, for only $69.95.
