A transparency astronomical chart of the heavens

REYNOLDS, James.

Chart of the Heavens Shewing the Stars Visible on any Night Throughout the Year.

London: Reynolds, c.1850. Steel engraving with original colour, printed on card. Sheet 285 x 225mm.

£125

Hand coloured 'hold to the light' chart. When held up to the light, the stars would appear as bright points against a darker background identifying constellations in the night sky. The main image of the constellations and Milky Way is encircled by a calendar scale, showing "the stars visible on any night throughout the year". Instructions for use are printed at the bottom.
